Tom, who has been a member of the PGA of America since 1995, has taught over 15,000 lessons. Tom has grown to become a seasoned, popular instructor, who has helped hundreds of golfers from entry-level players to skilled competitors improve their game and enjoyment of it.

Tom began his journey as a golf professional as an assistant at Sand Point Country Club in Seattle in 1990. He then spent 13 years at Meadowmeer Golf Club on Bainbridge Island WA from 1992-2005. Tom's family moved to Vancouver WA in 2006 where he briefly worked at Pro Golf of Vancouver before spending the last 15 seasons at Lake Oswego Municipal Golf Course as the Manager and Head Professional.

Tom received two awards from the Oregon Chapter, the Player Development Award in 2019, and the Professional Development Award in 2022. Tom's approach to teaching is to help each student unlock their full potential by identifying how they can achieve the proper impact position. His goal is to make sure that each student fully understands a concept before introducing a new one.

Tom has extensive experience teaching juniors how to play and grow into competitive golfers and has seen 22 of his students go on to receive college golf scholarships. He has led over 100 junior camps in his career as well as being a PGA Junior League coach since the program's inception.
