Ray Comella, PGA, serves as the Head Golf Professional at Eastmoreland Golf Course. A Class A Member of the PGA of America since 1995, Ray brings 40 years of teaching experience and has conducted more than 25,000 lessons. A Portland native, he was introduced to the game at age ten by his father and grew up playing as a junior right here at Eastmoreland.

Ray has enjoyed a distinguished playing career, competing in numerous PNWPGA tournaments and Pro-Ams, and earning the title of Oregon PGA Player of the Year twice. He has coached players of all ages and abilities and is passionate about helping every golfer improve. For the past twelve years, Ray has also been dedicated to developing young athletes through the PGA Junior League, giving them a strong foundation in the game.

Ray believes that solid fundamentals are the key to long-term enjoyment and success in golf, and he strives to make learning both effective and fun for every student.

Michael Charles is a teaching professional at Eastmoreland Golf Course, where he has been instructing since 2007. Prior to his time at Eastmoreland, Michael competed on various mini tours and taught at several golf facilities in Portland and Palm Springs, including La Quinta Country Club and Mission Hills Country Club.

Originally from London, England, Michael was very successful playing competitive golf at Jesuit High School and the University of Portland. He has represented Oregon at both junior and adult levels and also competed on the Korn Ferry Tour, one step below the PGA Tour.

In addition to his role at Eastmoreland, Michael is currently the Junior Varsity and Assistant Girls Golf Coach at Cleveland High School. His coaching experience includes collegiate programs at the University of Portland, Portland State University, and Lewis & Clark College.

As an instructor, Michael enjoys helping golfers of all skill levels achieve their individual goals. His teaching philosophy emphasizes core fundamentals and scoring techniques while adapting to each student's unique needs and playing style.
